CME ON COMPREHENSIVE DIABETIC FOOT CARE

BHARATI VIDYAPEETH MEDICAL COLLEGE AND HOSPITAL PUNE

Diabetes Mellitus has reached epidemic proportions in India, with urban areas bearing the brunt of this multisystemic disease. As life expectancy increases, the number of patients who develop target organ involvement is increasing, with foot ulcerations being of immediate concern to the surgical specialties. On one hand, Diabetic Foot increases the dependency of the ageing population and on the other hand, the younger working population is at higher risk of compromised livelihood due to earlier age of incidence and time to complications.

The necessity of continuously educating medical fraternity on various nuances of diabetic foot care remains relevant with the advances in understanding of biomechanics, pathophysiology, diagnostics, surgical options and rehabilitation. It is in this context that Department of Surgery Bharati Vidyapeeth Medical College & Hospital in association with Poona Surgical Society is conducting this CME on Comprehensive Diabetic Foot Care, with expert faculty at the national level making their valuable contributions.
